Statement of Risk

Devon Adventure places safety as a top priority. Adventurous activities involve some risks for the people taking part. Devon Adventure aim to keep these risks as low as possible. The chances of a serious injury are extremely low but minor injuries (bruises, bumps and grazes) are a possible result of taking part in an adventurous activity. Devon Adventure will minimise the dangers by:

- Carrying out an assessment of all risks before commencing the activity.
- Only using experienced instructors with the appropriate qualifications for the activity.
- Giving clear safety instructions to all participants.
- Ensuring equipment and clothing is well maintained and suitable for the activity.
- Ensuring activities are within the capabilities of the participants
- Asking participants to supply any medical conditions or information.

We expect participants to co-operate with Devon Adventure instructors to ensure their safety on all activities. Participants are expected to follow instructions and answer questions on medical conditions or other information relating to health and safety. It is the organisers responsibly to ensure all participants have read and understood the statement of risk.
